Teaching English by Design (Peter Smagorinsky) 2018-10-30 Teaching English by Design has become a classic resource for preservice teachers as well as service teachers. This third edition offers up-to-date thinking across most of the original 14 chapters, along with a new chapter on ‘Teaching Stressed Students Under Stressful Circumstances.’ Peter and Darren collaborated to create a unit on Power and Race. Designed to help teachers develop agency in supporting their students in their communities, this chapter provides a practical framework for addressing the needs of low-SES students who rely on limited resources. Together with Peter’s unique insight about students, how they learn, and the kinds of classrooms that support their achievement, Teaching English by Design, 2/e is more valuable and relevant than ever.

Teaching ESL/EFL Reading and Writing (I.S.P. Nation) 2008-10-15 Using a framework based on principles of teaching and learning, this guide for teachers and teacher-trainers promotes a wealth of suggestions for helping learners at all levels of proficiency develop their reading and writing skills and fluency. By following these suggestions, which are organized around four strands – meaning-focused input, meaning-focused output, language-focused learning, and fluency development – teachers will be able to design and present a balanced program for their students. Teaching ESL/EFL Reading and Writing, and its companion text, Teaching ESL/EFL Listening and Speaking, are similar in format and the kinds of topics covered, but do not need to be used together. Drawing on research and theory in applied linguistics, these focus on strategies and procedures aimed at fostering and assisting language development, and include a range of ready-to-use activities that can be adapted to different contexts and groups of learners.
